

Dispersed Power in a World in Transition

SID NL presents in the 2013-2014 Lecture Series:

'South-South Alliances and Tri-angular Cooperation'

Lecture & Discussion with

Dr. Renu Modi (University of Mumbai)

Monday 28 October 2013, VU University, 17:00-18:45

The emerging countries have distanced themselves from the traditional development model and the DAC framework of the OECD. They are advocating south-south cooperation as a new way of contributing to development based on equality and shared experiences. What's new in their approach and what do we learn from this south-south cooperation?

Dr. Renu Modi is Senior Lecturer and former Director (2008-2010) of the Centre for African Studies, University of Mumbai. She is a political scientist and received her Ph.D. from the Centre for African Studies at the School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Moderator: Peter Konijn, Founder and Director of Knowing Emerging Powers, a knowledge programme about the role of China, India and Brazil in the development of Africa in which research findings are shared and discussed with practitioners. He is researcher at the Rotterdam School of Management, Erasmus University

Logistical details:

Date: Monday 28 October 2013

Time: 17:00-18:45 (drinks at 18:45)

Location: Auditorium, VU University, De Boelelaan 1105, Amsterdam

Language: English

Admission: Free

Registration (seats are limited): registration@sidnl.org

Website: <http://www.sid-nl.org>

Society for International Development

Netherlands Chapter

This is a lecture in the SID NL 2013-2014 Lecture Series 'Dispersed Power in a World in Transition'.

This series is organised in cooperation with NCDO and VU University. Visit the SID NL-website for more information on the programme.